Making Medical Knowledge Miriam Solomon, 2015-04-03 How is medical knowledge made New methods for research and clinical care have reshaped the practices of medical knowledge production over the last forty years Consensus conferences evidence based medicine translational medicine and narrative medicine are among the most prominent new methods Making Medical Knowledge explores their origins and aims their epistemic strengths and their epistemic weaknesses Miriam Solomon argues that the familiar dichotomy between the art and the science of medicine is not adequate for understanding this plurality of methods The book begins by tracing the development of medical consensus conferences from their beginning at the United States National Institutes of Health in 1977 to their widespread adoption in national and international contexts It discusses consensus conferences as social epistemic institutions designed to embody democracy and achieve objectivity Evidence based medicine which developed next ranks expert consensus at the bottom of the evidence hierarchy thus challenging the authority of consensus conferences Evidence based medicine has transformed both medical research and clinical medicine in many positive ways but it has also been accused of creating an intellectual hegemony that has marginalized crucial stages of scientific research particularly scientific discovery Translational medicine is understood as a response to the shortfalls of both consensus conferences and evidence based medicine Narrative medicine is the most prominent recent development in the medical humanities Its central claim is that attention to narrative is essential for patient care Solomon argues that the differences between narrative medicine and the other methods have been exaggerated and offers a pluralistic account of how the all the methods interact and sometimes conflict The result is both practical and theoretical suggestions for how to improve medical knowledge and understand medical controversies

Heiniger, 2012-12-06 TQM AND TAYLORISM HOW THEY COMPARE H Bremer Preface The industrial world today is divided between two camps a culture based on the principles of Total Quality Management TQM developed in the Far East and one still strongly influenced by the origins of Scientific Management introduced in the West by F W Taylor and others at the turn of the century This divergence will be shown to have arisen in the last forty years long enough for a new generation of managers and corresponding culture to emerge The two cultures are so deeply entrenched that it is difficult for one to change to the other However there is strong evidence to support the contention that people oriented TQM is superior and those companies clinging to Taylor models now face difficult decisions Actions by Taylor companies to move to TQM might well be hindered rather than helped by applying present Quality Assurance Standards developed by Taylor oriented national and international Standards Institutions
