Ethics in Youth Sport Stephen Harvey, Richard Light, 2013 The influence of professional adult sport on youth sport is now a global concern Children are involved in high stakes competitive sport at national and international levels at an increasingly young age In addition the use of sport as a medium for positive youth development by governments and within the community has fuelled ambitious targets for young people's participation in sport at all levels. In this important study of ethical issues in and around youth sport, leading international experts argue for the development of strong ethical codes for the conduct of youth sport and for effective policy and pedagogical applications to ensure that the positive benefits of sport are optimized and the negative aspects diminished. At the heart of the discussion are the prevailing standards and expectations of youth sport in developed societies, typically consisting of the development of motor competence, the development of a safe and healthy lifestyle and competitive style, and the development of a positive self image and good relationship skills. The book examines the recommendations emerging from the Panathlon Declaration and the debates that have followed and covers a wide range of key ethical issues including emotional and physical abuse, aggression and violence, doping and cheating, values and norms, teaching and coaching, integrity management. Ethics in Youth Sport is focused on the application of ethical policy and pedagogies and is grounded in practice. It assumes no prior ethical training on the part of the reader and is essential reading for all students, researchers, policy makers and professionals working with children and young people in sport across school, community and professional settings.

Spark a Revolution in Early Education Rae Pica, 2022-11-22. Join the revolution in early childhood education. Early childhood educators are facing a crucial inflection point in the profession. Active learning for the whole child has been increasingly ignored by early childhood education decision makers. Research shows that children need movement and play and joy to learn to their fullest potential, yet the educational system pushes worksheets and takes away time outdoors among many other harmful and developmentally inappropriate teaching practices. Educators everywhere are tired of witnessing unrealistic expectations and impossible attempts to accelerate child development, stripping children of authentic learning and their giggles. They are disturbed by the inequities that exist in education and want to see every child provided with the good foundation a quality early education can supply. They are fed up with the nonsense depriving children of childhood, requiring them to teach in ways that they know aren't right. Without an understanding of child development guiding ECE policies, children have lost their love of learning and play and face growing health issues. This book challenges and inspires early childhood professionals to advocate for change in the field while giving them the research underpinnings and tools they need to take real action and bring back active play-based learning for the development and education of the whole child. Including chapters on debunking myths in early childhood education, advocacy basics and strategies for speaking up, it dispels the fears associated with speaking up and banishes all doubts about the need to advocate bravely and widely, proving the need to change course and providing practical and actionable steps for speaking to decision makers and convincing them to pursue change. Spark a Revolution in Early Education busts four myths: earlier is better, children learn by sitting, digital devices are important to learning, and play time is not productive time to push for. Rae's Revolution and get educators everywhere to stand up for the children.
