Modeling and Using Context Anind Dey, Boicho Kokinov, David Leake, Roy Turner, 2005-07-11 Context is of crucial importance for research and applications in many disciplines as evidenced by many workshops symposia seminars and conferences on specific aspects of context The International and Interdisciplinary Conference on Modeling and Using Context CONTEXT the oldest conference series focusing on context provides a unique interdisciplinary emphasis bringing together participants from a wide range of disciplines including artificial intelligence cognitive science computer science linguistics organizational science philosophy psychology ubiquitous computing and application areas such as medicine and law to discuss and report on context related research and projects Previous CONTEXT conferences were held in Rio de Janeiro Brazil 1997 Trento Italy 1999 LNCS 1688 Dundee UK 2001 LNCS 2116 and Palo Alto USA 2003 LNCS 2680 CONTEXT 2005 was held in Paris France during July 5 8 2005 There was a strong response to the CONTEXT 2005 Call for Papers with 120 submissions received A careful review process assessed all submissions with each paper first reviewed by the international Program Committee and then reviewer discussions were initiated as needed to assure that the final decisions carefully considered all aspects of each paper Reviews of submissions by the Program Chairs were supervised independently and anonymously to assure fair consideration of all work Out of the 120 submissions 23 were selected as full papers for oral presentation and 20 were selected as full papers for poster presentation These outstanding papers are presented in this proceedings      The Oxford Handbook of Deaf Studies in Learning and Cognition Marc Marschark, Harry

Knoors, 2020-04-15 In recent years the intersection of cognitive psychology developmental psychology and neuroscience with regard to deaf individuals has received increasing attention from a variety of academic and educational audiences Both research and pedagogy have addressed questions about whether deaf children learn in the same ways that hearing children learn how signed languages and spoken languages might affect different aspects of cognition and cognitive development and the ways in which hearing loss influences how the brain processes and retains information There are now a number of preliminary answers to these questions but there has been no single forum in which research into learning and cognition is brought together The Oxford Handbook of Deaf Studies in Learning and Cognition aims to provide this shared forum focusing exclusively on learning cognition and cognitive development from theoretical psychological biological linguistic social emotional and educational perspectives Each chapter includes state of the art research conducted and reviewed by international experts in the area Drawing this research together this volume allows for a synergy of ideas that possesses the potential to move research theory and practice forward      Reading and Learning Andreas Dengel, Markus Junker, Anette Weisbecker, 2004-04-16 The amounts of information that are flooding people both at the workplace and in private life have increased dramatically in the past ten years The number of paper documents doubles every four years and the amount of information stored on all data carriers every six years New knowledge however increases at a considerably lower rate Possibilities for automatic content recognition in various media and for the processing of documents are therefore becoming more important every day Especially in economic terms the efficient handling of information i.e. getting the right information at the right time is an invaluable resource for any enterprise but it is particularly important for small and medium sized enterprises The market for document management systems which in Europe had a volume of approximately 5 billion euros in 2000 will increase considerably over the next few years The BMBF recognized this development at an early stage As early as in 1995 it pooled national capabilities in this field in order to support research on the automatic processing of information within the framework of a large collaborative project READ involving both industrial companies and research centres Evaluation of the results led to the conclusion that research work had been successful and in a second phase funding was provided for the collaborative follow up project Adaptive READ from 1999 to 2003 The completion of these two important long term research projects has contributed substantially to improving the possibilities of content recognition and processing of handwritten printed and electronic documents
