Abstract

The summary briefly overviews the changes and problems in real estate agency practices in Malaysia from 1981 onwards. It emphasizes ethical issues, technological developments, and regulatory focus areas. The abstract also explains a comparative research study about how real estate is done in Malaysia, Singapore, Indonesia, Australia, and Hong Kong to find similarities and areas needing improvement. The study discovers likenesses in controlling frameworks but indicates improvements relating to qualification standards, education levels for practitioners, and, their tactics of enforcement, and monitoring through comparing analysis.

Families And Estates A Comparative Study:

Families and Estates International Academy of Estate and Trust Law. Annual Conference, 2005-01-01 This book focuses upon two themes the definition of family and the impact of the expansion of the concept of family in law and family fights over wills and estates what recourse family members may have in challenging an estate The first part The challenge of the new family for Law considers the challenge both in the inter vivos and the postmortem contexts in the United States Canada France the United Kingdom Australia and New Zealand A particular focus is upon the dramatic expansion of the definition of family from the traditional nuclear family consisting of a husband wife and their mutual children to a definition that includes unmarried heterosexual and same sex couples living together and in some jurisdictions to new kinds of companionate partnerships that are not based on a sexual relationship In some jurisdictions such developments are simply an expression of sharing responsibility by allocating it in the private domain as opposed to the public potentially through social welfare in others particularly in the United States it is a defence of fundamental institutions and with it a defence of society itself The second part Family fights over wills and estates examines the law in Australia Switzerland France Mexico and the United Kingdom Its comparison of civil and common law approaches shows how the law expresses the same principle objects protection of family and obligations towards key family members but does so from entirely different perspectives and where the common law which enshrined the notion of testamentary freedom is being qualified through the expanding domain of family provision legislation the civil law which is based on codified shares and allocated responsibilities expressed through proportionate entitlements in estates is being qualified through a range of disqualifying and varying mechanisms

Women, marriage and property in wealthy landed families in Ireland, 1750-1850 Deborah Wilson, 2013-07-19

Until recently women featured in the historiography of the landed class in Ireland either as bearers of assets to advantageous matches or as potential drains on family estates Drawing on a range of sources from the papers of landed families this book provides fresh insights into the place of these women Looking at women's experiences of property and power in twenty landed families between 1750 and 1850 and outlining the statutory developments that impacted upon the distribution of family property in Ireland Wilson considers how women were provided for and examines the legal social and familial factors that influenced the experience elite women had of property Individual examples demonstrate the similarities and differences between women in this class and illustrate how the experience women had of property in this period was more complex than their legal and social status might suggest This book will appeal to scholars in the fields of Irish history gender and women's studies The Family Estate in Africa Robert F. Gray, P.H. Gulliver, 2013-11-05 Too often accounts of African family life have tended to describe the family in purely static terms The contributors to this book emphasize the developmental or time dimension of the family analysing it as a process In the seven different societies described in East Africa the Congo and the Transvaal the changing nature of the distribution of rights in the family property and resources is directly linked with the
