Living Richly In An Age Of Limits:

Living Richly in an Age of Limits Bill Devall, 1993 Devall's first book Deep Ecology explained the deep long range ecology philosophy. His next book Simple in Means Rich in Ends discussed suggestions for putting the philosophy to work. Now comes a progress report focusing on practical suggestions for modifications that can enrich our lifestyles without hurting the rest of the world.

Living Deep Ecology Bill Devall, 2020-11-24 Living Deep Ecology A Bioregional Journey is an exploration of our evolving relationship with a specific bioregion. It is set in Humboldt County in northwestern California in the Klamath Siskiyou bioregion. By focusing on a specific bioregion and reflecting on anthropogenic changes in this bioregion over three decades, Bill Devall engages the reader in asking deeper questions about the meaning we find in Nature. He addresses questions such as how do we relate the facts and theories presented by science with our feelings, our intimacy and our sense of Place as we dwell in a specific bioregion. This book engages the reader to consider our place in Nature. Devall approaches the bioregion not from the perspective of agencies and government but from the perspective of the landscape itself. The

Recurring Dark Ages Sing C. Chew, 2007 In this modern era of global environmental crisis, Sing Chew provides a convincing analysis of the recurring human and environmental crises identified as Dark Ages. In this, his second of a three volume series concerning world ecological degradation, Chew reviews the past 5 000 year history of structural conditions and processes that define the relationship between nature and culture. Chew's message about the coming Dark Ages as human communities continue to reorganize to meet the contingencies of ecological scarcity and climate changes is a must read for those concerned with human interactions and environmental changes including environmental anthropologists and historians, world historians, geographers, archaeologists and environmental scientists. The Deep Ecology Movement

Alan Drengson, Yuichi Inoue, 1995-02-02 Deep ecology, a term coined by noted Norwegian philosopher Arne Naess, is a worldwide grassroots environmental movement that seeks to redress the shallow and piecemeal approach of technology based ecology. Its followers share a profound respect for the earth's interrelated natural systems and a sense of urgency about the need to make profound cultural and social changes in order to respond and sustain the long term health of the planet. This comprehensive introduction to the Deep Ecology movement brings together Naess' groundbreaking work with essays by environmental thinkers and activists responding to and expanding on its philosophical and practical aspects. Contributors include George Sessions, Gary Snyder, Alan Drengson, Bill Devall, Freya Matthews, Warwick Fox, David Rothenberg, Michael E Zimmerman, Patsy Hallen, Dolores LaChapelle, Pat Fleming, Joanna Macy, John Rodman and Andrew McLaughlin. The authors offer diverse viewpoints from ecofeminist, scientific and purely philosophical approaches to Christian, Buddhist and Gandhian based principles. Their essays show how social, technological, psychological, philosophical and institutional issues are all fundamentally related to our attitudes and values toward the natural world. Culture and Conservation

Eleanor Shoreman-Ouimet, Helen Kopnina, 2015-11-19 Today there is growing interest in conservation and anthropologists have an important role to play in helping conservation succeed for the sake of humanity and for the sake of other species Equally important however is the fact that we as the species that causes extinctions have a moral responsibility to those whose evolutionary unfolding and very future we threaten This volume is an examination of the relationship between conservation and the social sciences particularly anthropology It calls for increased collaboration between anthropologists conservationists and environmental scientists and advocates for a shift towards an environmentally focused perspective that embraces not only cultural values and human rights but also the intrinsic value and rights to life of nonhuman species This book demonstrates that cultural and biological diversity are intimately interlinked and equally threatened by the industrialism that endangers the planet's life giving processes The consideration of ecological data as well as an expansion of ethics that embraces more than one species is essential to a well rounded understanding of the connections between human behavior and environmental wellbeing This book gives students and researchers in anthropology conservation environmental ethics and across the social sciences an invaluable insight into how innovative and intensive new interdisciplinary approaches questions ethics and subject pools can close the gap between culture and conservation

Kassiola, 2015-03-04 The contributors to this volume focus on the political and value issues that in their shared view underlie the global environmental crisis facing us today They argue that only by transforming our dominant values, social institutions and way of living can we avoid ecological disaster      Identity and the Natural Environment Susan Clayton, 2003-11-07 The often impassioned nature of environmental conflicts can be attributed to the fact that they are bound up with our sense of personal and social identity Environmental identity how we orient ourselves to the natural world leads us to personalize abstract global issues and take action or not according to our sense of who we are We may know about the greenhouse effect but can we give up our SUV for a more fuel efficient car Understanding this psychological connection can lead to more effective pro environmental policymaking Identity and the Natural Environment examines the ways in which our sense of who we are affects our relationship with nature and vice versa This book brings together cutting edge work on the topic of identity and the environment sampling the variety and energy of this emerging field but also placing it within a descriptive framework These theory based empirical studies locate environmental identity on a continuum of social influence and the book is divided into three sections reflecting minimal moderate or strong social influence Throughout the contributors focus on the interplay between social and environmental forces as one local activist says We don't know if we're organizing communities to plant trees or planting trees to organize communities      Bioregionalism and Global Ethics Richard Evanoff, 2010-09-13 While a number of schools of environmental thought including social ecology, ecofeminism, ecological Marxism, ecoanarchism and bioregionalism have attempted to link social issues to a concern for the environment environmental ethics as an academic discipline has tended to focus more narrowly on ethics related either to changes in personal values or behavior or to the various ways in which nature might be valued What is lacking is a framework in which individual social and environmental concerns can be looked at not in isolation from each other but rather in terms of their interrelationships In this book Evanoff aims to develop just such a philosophical framework one in which ethical questions related to interactions between self, society and nature can be discussed across disciplines and from a variety of different perspectives The central problem his study investigates is the extent to which a dichotomized view of the relationship between nature and culture perpetuated in ongoing debates over anthropocentric vs ecocentric approaches to environmental ethics might be overcome through the adoption of a transactional perspective which offers a more dynamic and coevolutionary understanding of how humans interact with their natural environments Unlike anthropocentric approaches to environmental ethics which often privilege human concerns over ecological preservation and some ecocentric approaches which place more emphasis on preserving natural environments than on meeting human needs a transactional approach attempts to create more symbiotic and less conflictual modes of interaction between human cultures and natural environments which allow for the flourishing of both

Long Lives Are for the Rich Jan Baars, 2023-07-26 Long Lives Are for the Rich is the title of a silent ominous program that affects the lives of millions of people In all developed countries disadvantaged and especially poor people die much earlier than the most advantaged During these shorter lives they suffer ten to twenty years longer from disabilities or chronic disease This does not happen accidentally health inequalities including those between healthy and unhealthy life styles are mainly caused by social inequalities that are reproduced over the life course This crucial function of the life course has become painfully visible during its neoliberal reorganization since the early 1980s Studies about aging over the life course from birth to death show the inhumane consequences as people get older In spite of the enormous wealth that has been piled up in the US for a dwindling percentage of the population there has been growing public indifference about the needs of those in jobs with low pay and high stress but also about citizens from a broad middle class who can hardly afford high quality education or healthcare However this ominous program affects all recent mortality rates show that all Americans including the rich are unhealthier and dying earlier than citizens of other developed countries Moreover the underlying social inequalities are tearing the population apart with nasty consequences for all citizens including the rich Although the public awareness of the consequences has been growing neoliberal policies remain tempting for the economic and political elites of the developed world because of the enormous wealth that is flowing to the top All this poses urgent questions of social justice Unfortunately the predominant studies of social justice along the life course help to reproduce these inequalities by neglecting them This book analyzes the main dynamics of social inequality over the life course and proposes a theory of social justice that sketches a way forward for a country that is willing to invest in its greatest resource the creative potential of its population

Deep Agroecology and the Homeric Epics John W. Head, 2020-12-15 Drawing on the Homeric epics this multidisciplinary work reveals the cultural transformations which need to take place in order to transition from today's modern extractive agricultural system to a sustainable natural systems agriculture In order to provide an imaginative foundation on which to build such a cultural transformation the author draws on the oldest and most pervasive pair of literary works in the Western canon the Iliad and the Odyssey He uses themes from those foundational literary works to critique the concept of state sovereignty and to explain how innovative federalism structures around the world already show momentum building toward changes in global environmental governance The book proposes a dramatic expansion on those innovations to create eco states responsible for agroecological management Drawing from many years of experience in international institutions the author proposes a system of coordination by which an international agroecology focused organization would simultaneously i avoid the shortcomings of the world s current family of powerful global institutions and ii help create and implement a reformed system of local landscape based agriculture wholly consistent with ecological principles Acknowledging the difficulty of achieving reforms such as these the author suggests that a new cultural conceptual narrative can be constructed drawing on values set forth 2 700 years ago in the Homeric epics He explains how these values can be reimagined to drive forward our efforts in addressing today s the climate and agricultural crises in ways that reflect not reject the natural processes and relationships that make the Earth a living planet This book will be of great interest to students academics and policymakers addressing issues of agrarian values environmental and agricultural law environmental restoration agroecology and global institutional reform

World Ecological Degradation Sing C. Chew, 2001-06-06 Deforestation soil runoff salination pollution While recurrent themes of the contemporary world they are not new to us In this broad sweeping review of the environmental impacts of human settlement and development worldwide over the past 5 000 years Sing C Chew shows that these processes are as old as civilization itself With examples ranging from Ancient Mesopotamia to Malaya Mycenaean Greece to Ming China Chew shows that the processes of population growth intensive resource accumulation and urbanization in ancient and modern societies almost universally bring on ecological disaster which often contributes to the decline and fall of that society He then turns his eye to the development of the modern European world system and its impact on the environment Challenging us to change these long term trends Chew also traces the existence of environmental conservation ideas and movements over the span of 5 000 years Can we do it Look at Chew s evidence of the past five millennia and decide
