Japanese Advance into the Pacific Ocean Akitoshi Hiraoka,2017-09-12 This book asserts that the albatross was the reason for the advance of the Japanese into the isolated islands in the Pacific after the abolition of the Japanese closed door policy that had been in effect from the seventeenth century to the latter part of the nineteenth century The birds plumage was of high quality and sold at quite a good price in Europe The Japanese realized the advantage of this global trade and their desire to capture albatross motivated them to advance into the Pacific The exploration of the uninhabited islands had become a fast moving trend defined by the author as the Bird Rush As a consequence the advance into the Pacific by the Japanese resulted in the expansion of Japanese territory The author has interpreted this Japanese movement into the Pacific by making use of the framework of three distinct shifts in the aim of their actions from birds to guano phosphate ore in the agents of action from individual speculators to commercial capital and then to monopolistic capital and from the sea near Japan to the wider Pacific This concept can be termed a view of history centered on the albatross Advanced Software Applications in Japan Edward A.
