

A person stands on a mountain peak, their silhouette dark against the bright, hazy light of a rising sun. Their arms are outstretched to the sides, embracing the vast landscape. The sun is a brilliant, glowing orb in the center of the frame, casting long, soft rays across the sky and the mountain range below. The mountains in the distance are layered and hazy, creating a sense of depth and tranquility. The overall mood is one of hope, achievement, and a new beginning.

The Greening of Protestant Thought Robert Booth Fowler, 2000-11-09 The Greening of Protestant Thought traces the increasing influence of environmentalism on American Protestantism since the first Earth Day which took place in 1970 Robert Booth

Fowler explores the extent to which ecological concerns permeate Protestant thought and examines contemporary controversies within and between mainline and fundamentalist Protestantism over the Bible's teachings about the environment. Fowler explores the historical roots of environmentalism in Protestant thought including debates over God's relationship to nature and the significance of the current environmental crisis for the history of Christianity. Although he argues that mainline Protestantism is becoming increasingly green, he also examines the theological basis for many fundamentalists' hostility toward the environmental movement. In addition, Fowler considers Protestantism's policy agendas for environmental change as well as the impact on mainline Protestant thinking of modern eco-theologies, process and creation theologies, and ecofeminism.

Re-thinking the Day of YHWH and Restoration of Fortunes in the Prophet Zephaniah
Michael Ufok Udoekpo, 2010. The prophecy of Zephaniah is a compendium of prophetic thoughts on the nature of YHWH's relationship with His people. This research critically builds on past scholarships and exegetically demonstrates the thematic literary and theological relationships of Zeph 1:14-18 and 3:14-20 with the rest of the Twelve Minor Prophets, Deuteronomistic History, and with Psalm 126, and insists on Zephaniah's creative and unique understanding of God, His judgment and saving roles. Taking the judgment and wrath narrative in Zeph 1:14-18 as its pericope of exegetical departure, the author diachronically and synchronically studies in detail the contents, meaning, relevance, and the theological values of Zephaniah's Day of YHWH to all cultures and religious communities. In particular, he emphasizes the fuller and salvific notion of a God who not only judges, intervenes in human history, punishes sinners, but loves, shows mercy, rewards, saves, inspires hope, and restores the fortunes of the remnant who repents (Zeph 3:14-20).

Beyond Hope Stephen J. Costello, 2020-10-12. Drawing on a host of philosophers such as Arthur Schopenhauer, Gabriel Marcel, Josef Pieper, Paul Ricoeur, Viktor Frankl, Eric Voegelin, Bernard Lonergan, Roger Scruton, John Caputo, and Ludwig Wittgenstein, as well as theologians like Hans Urs von Balthasar, Karl Rahner, Hans Küng, Pope Benedict XVI, and Pope Francis, this book argues passionately for the place of hope as the beyond of both a will-o-the-wisp facile optimism on the one hand and a world-weary fatuous pessimism on the other. Drawing on the philosophy of Advaita Vedanta in the concluding chapter, it suggests that only by living from the Self, as distinct from the ego, can we know ultimate peace and experience the bliss of being that is beyond both hope and happiness. These philosophical reflections are both timely as the publication appears amid the Coronavirus crisis and wise. It is warmly recommended for its breadth and depth of knowledge. This book will appeal to students of both Eastern and Western philosophy as well as spiritual seekers.
