

The Five Phases of the Fur Trade

Phase 1: The British and French both fished off the east coast of Canada. There, they met the Mi'kmaq people and started trading with them.

Phase 2: The French established New France and they traded with the First Nations around the great lakes and St. Lawrence River.

Phase 3: British set up the Hudson's Bay Company (HBC). New Britain and France were both competing for the fur trade.

Phase 4: The North West Company (NWC) took over the French fur trade. Both the NWC and the HBC were competing and needed more fur as the supply of beavers was growing.

Phase 5: British got the HBC and the NWC to merge into the RBC, which ruled across Canada.

Europe and the Americas Jeremy Smith, 2006-08-01. This volume takes up current debates in comparative and historical sociology that deal with multiple modernities and civilizations. It does so through an examination of patterns of state formation, civilization, and the development of capitalism in the interaction of European and American worlds over three centuries. The early part of the argument explores cutting-edge theoretical debates around the nature of early modern formations.

The North Atlantic World in the Seventeenth Century Kenneth Gordon Davies, Work, Class, and Power in the Borderlands of the Early American Pacific Evan Lampe, 2013-12-12. This book traces the history of working people who helped establish the foundation of the American empire in the Pacific from its origins after the American Revolution to its coming of age in the 1840s and 1850s. Beginning with the expeditions of the Columbia and the Lady Washington, Lampe argues that the early American Pacific can best be considered through the interaction of four major locations connected through the networks of trade: the merchant ship, the Northwest Coast, Honolulu, and Canton, Guangzhou. In each of these locations, the labors of a diverse population of working people were harnessed in the critical labors of empire building, including the transportation of goods. The central question is the consideration of working people in the Pacific economy during this period. Lampe argues the role of power applied on these laborers by an international capitalist class emerging alongside the Pacific commercial empires. Lampe also finds that this power was not uncontested and emerged in response to the activities of labor. Working people on the ship and in the port cities found ways to secure their piece of the profitable trade, often through illicit means.

Metis and the Medicine Line Michel Hogue, 2015-04-06. Born of encounters between Indigenous women and Euro-American men in the first decades of the nineteenth century, the Plains Metis people occupied contentious geographic and cultural spaces. Living in a disputed area of the northern Plains, inhabited by various Indigenous nations and claimed by both the United States and Great Britain, the Metis emerged as a people with distinctive styles of speech, dress, and religious practice and occupational identities forged in the intense rivalries of the fur and provisions trade Michel Hogue explores how as fur trade societies waned and as state officials looked to establish clear lines separating the United States from Canada and Indians from non Indians these communities of mixed Indigenous and European ancestry were profoundly affected by the efforts of nation states to divide and absorb the North American West Grounded in extensive research in U S and Canadian archives Hogue s account recenters historical discussions that have typically been confined within national boundaries and illuminates how Plains Indigenous peoples like the Metis were at the center of both the unexpected accommodations and the hidden history of violence that made the world s longest undefended border The British Empire Jane

Samson,2001-06-22 The phenomenon of imperialism has never been under such intense scrutiny by such a wide range of academic disciplines as it is today From cultural studies to the history of science academics are engaged in a series of debates about empire which move far beyond traditional preoccupations with metropolitan strategy economics and rivalry Using primary and secondary documentary sources this reader negotiates the many trends and concerns in recent debates to provide a broad based comparative history of the British Empire Selected readings are presented within a chronological framework from the origins of empire to decolonization and beyond Samson adopts a theme of identity to explore different perspectives through the sources including metropolitan colonial and indigenous responses General and section introductions explore such issues as the role of economics and religion in imperial expansion and rule how indigenous and Creole populations constructed and expressed their own identities and what changes were wrought by the process of decolonization Bringing together a wide range of documentary evidence this volume allows the varied and vital debates on aspects of imperialism and identity to be seen in the context of the broad history of the British Empire A Collection of Papers on Political, Literary, and Moral Subjects Noah Webster,1843 First ed Skeel E E F A Bibliography of the Writings of Noah Webster New York New York Public Library 1958 No 753 A collection of papers on political, literary and moral subjects Nesta Helen Webster,1843
