The Philosophy of Metacognition Joëlle Proust, 2013-11-28 Does metacognition i e the capacity to form epistemic self evaluations about one's current cognitive performance derive from a mindreading capacity or does it rely at least in part on sui generis informational processes In The Philosophy of Metacognition Joëlle Proust provides a powerful defense of the second position Drawing on discussions of empirical evidence from comparative developmental and experimental psychology as well as from neuroscience and on conceptual analyses she purports to show that in contrast with analytic metacognition procedural metacognition does not need to involve metarepresentations Procedural metacognition seems to be available to some non humans some primates and rodents Proust further claims that metacognition is essentially related to mental agency i e cognitive control and monitoring Self probing is equivalent to a self addressed question about the feasibility of a mental action Am I able to remember this word Post evaluating is a way of asking oneself whether a given mental action has been successfully completed Is this word the one I was looking for Neither question need be articulated conceptually for a feeling of knowing or of being right to be generated or to drive epistemic control Various issues raised by the contrast of a procedural experience based metacognition with an analytic concept based metacognition are explored such as whether each is expressed in a different representational format their sensitivity to different epistemic norms and the existence of a variety of types of epistemic acceptance
