Finding My Way The Autobiography Of An Optimist:

Finding My Way Evelyn Stefansson Nef, 2002 Reading Evelyn Stefansson Nef's autobiography is like watching time lapse photographs of a rose in the process of blooming Each petal in random sequence breaks free from the bud and stretches out in all directions The intricately textured flower in full bloom gives little hint of its humble beginning Born in 1913 the child of Hungarian Jewish immigrants Evelyn grew up in Brooklyn Her memories of her early years are dominated by a sense of joylessness a remote and fragile mother and a father she adored who died suddenly when she was thirteen While studying art at high school in Manhattan Evelyn frequently visited a Greenwich Village restaurant called Romany Marie's a popular gathering place for artists and writers Among her new acquaintances was the futurist inventor and architect Buckminster Fuller who became an intimate friend As a bright talented and attractive young woman Evelyn moved freely within New York's theatrical and literary worlds of the 1930s Under the tutelage of master puppeteer Bil Baird with whom she had a passionate but short lived marriage she became accomplished in the art of marionettes

A Spirit that Impels M. Gerard Fromm, 2018-05-01 This volume brings together some of the papers presented by leading scholars artists and psychoanalysts at an annual Creativity Seminar organised by the Erikson Institute of the Austen Riggs Center Looking at creativity through a psychoanalytic lens and very importantly vice versa the authors examine great works such as Nathaniel Hawthorne's The Scarlet Letter Mahler's Eighth Symphony and William Gibson's The Miracle Worker as well as great artists such as Van Gogh and Lennon and McCartney for what we might learn about the creative process itself Deepening this conversation are a number of clinical studies and other reflections on the creative process in sickness and in health so to speak A central theme is that of deep play the level at which the artist may be unconsciously playing out on behalf of all of us the deepest dynamics of human emotion in order that we may leave the encounter not only emotionally spent but profoundly informed as well

Future Remains Gregg Mitman, Marco Armiero, Robert S. Emmett, 2018-04-20 What can a pesticide pump a jar full of sand or an old calico print tell us about the Anthropocene the age of humans Just as paleontologists look to fossil remains to infer past conditions of life on earth so might past and present day objects offer clues to intertwined human and natural histories that shape our planetary futures In this era of aggressive hydrocarbon extraction extreme weather and severe economic disparity how might certain objects make visible the uneven interplay of economic material and social forces that shape relationships among human and nonhuman beings Future Remains is a thoughtful and creative meditation on these questions The fifteen objects gathered in this book resemble more the tarots of a fortuneteller than the archaeological finds of an expedition they speak of planetary futures Marco Armiero Robert S Emmett and Gregg Mitman have assembled a cabinet of curiosities for the Anthropocene bringing together a mix of lively essays creatively chosen objects and stunning photographs by acclaimed photographer Tim Flach The result is a book that interrogates the origins implications and potential dangers of the Anthropocene and makes us wonder anew about what exactly human history is made of Colonialism Tina Adcock, 2025-06-01 Exploration has long been pivotal to southern engagements with northern Canada but it is most often associated with the nineteenth century or earlier. A Cold Colonialism offers the first extended examination of twentieth century exploration in the Canadian North. Modern exploration helped southerners establish and maintain distinctive kinds of colonial and settler colonial power over northern Indigenous homelands. Who explored the North between 1918 and 1965? What forms did exploration take? What did it mean to explorers and others affected by it? Tina Adcock focuses on four representative explorers with richly documented careers: mining engineer George Douglas, surveyor Guy Blanchet, ethnologist Vilhjalmur Stefansson, and filmmaker Richard Finnie. Despite limited experience in and knowledge of the Canadian North, these explorers helped southern militaries, industries, and governments exert control over northern peoples and their lands. Each also claimed belonging in and authority over the North in ways that still resonate among southern settlers in Canada today.

Travelling Passions Gísli Pálsson, 2005 Vilhjalmur Stefansson is widely known for his groundbreaking Canadian Arctic explorations of the early 1900s. He acquired a reputation almost larger than life with his discovery of the Copper Inuit, a hitherto unknown people; his insistence on living as the local people did; and with Natkusiak, his Inuit co-explorer, his adventurous forays onto barren ice for months at a time. He was a fixture in the New York Greenwich Village scene and later in his life taught at Dartmouth College. However, despite his detailed field diaries and the frenzy of publicity that followed his every move, his private life has remained largely unknown. Then, in 1987, an accidental discovery in a flea market of hundreds of private letters and documents proved to be those belonging to Stefansson, and they told a story of private relationships, in particular with two southern women: Orpha Cecil Smith, to whom Stefansson was engaged, and the novelist Fannie Hurst, with whom Stefansson was involved for many years. Moreover, letters between some of Stefansson's friends, as well as his own field diaries, alluded to an important relationship Stefansson had with an Inupiat woman in the Arctic, Pannigabluk, and to their son, Alex Gísli Pálsson. Gísli Pálsson has followed the trail of these sources and conducted many interviews with Stefansson's northern descendants, uncovering a complex and perhaps torn personality. In Travelling Passions, we have a much more complete picture of the man who figured so largely in the imagination of the early twentieth century.

BOOK JACKET The Longevity Revolution Robert N. Butler, 2009-09-08 Pulitzer prize winning author Dr. Robert Butler coined the term ageism and made Alzheimer's a familiar word. Now he brings his formidable knowledge and experience in aging issues to a recent and unprecedented achievement: the extension of human life expectancy by thirty years. As Butler shows, our society had not yet adapted to this change. The U.S. has not made a research investment in aging. Only eleven medical schools out of 145 have geriatrics departments, compared to England where geriatrics is the number two specialty. We have not solidified private pension plans or strengthened Social Security to ensure that people do not outlive their resources. In this urgent and ultimately optimistic book, Dr. Butler shows why and how we must re-examine our personal and societal approach to aging right now so that the boomers and the generations that follow may have a financially secure, vigorous, and healthy
